Flinders University's Department of Screen and Media offers Adelaide's largest and most diverse tertiary program in the study of screen, digital and interactive media. Our courses explore theoretical and practical aspects of screen production including film, television, digital media, internet, animation and games. Students have a variety of choices and opportunities to develop their interests and talents in screen and media.

Flinders University's Drama Department is highly respected for providing professional actor and director training in Australia. Drama students hone their craft in the Flinders Drama Centre, which houses the 425-seat Matthew Flinders Theatre, dance and voice training studios, a three-camera television studio and a "black box" studio.
