Goldfields Institute Graphic Design Online focuses on students achieving relevant industry skills. These include working to real design briefs, research, sketching, critiquing, through to using the software to create completed designs. A number of guest industry experts also present to our students throughout the duration of the course. Instruction in the use of design software is clear and easy to follow, with access to hundreds of hours of video tutorials, regular online classroom sessions and continuous support via online forums and email. Constructive individual feedback is given on each activity and assessment.

An online student gallery, Design of the Week competition and creative, visual interactive content also assure a rich learning experience is maintained.
