

FILM/TELEVISION/AUDIO

Screenwriting & Editing
Post Production
Music Composition
Production Management
Radio & TV Broadcast
Documentary Development

PERFORMING ARTS

Technical Production
Lighting
Music Performance
Scenographic Design

USQ's Bachelor of Creative Arts (Film, Television and Radio) allows you to gain highly desirable technical skills and experience to help you stand out from the job crowd when you graduate. Film, television and radio graduates are in higher demand than ever. When you study this degree at USQ you bring your individuality and your lecturers bring their industry knowledge and expertise, giving you the skills current employers want. You will gain valuable practical experience through USQ's strong links to some of Queensland's best-known media organisations. Plus you'll have the chance to become involved in media production through USQ's very own student supported media channel Phoenix Media, streaming both media and radio live and on demand.

- 1 Behind the scenes: Film, Radio and Television students working on student production, 'Connected' – a variety chat show broadcast on Digital 31 and online
- 2 Behind the scenes: Film, Radio and Television students working on live stream broadcast at USQ Springfield Open Day
- 3 Behind the scenes: USQ student, Lara Mackenzie, working on camera at USQ Springfield studios
- 4 Still from Film, Radio and Television student podcast production 'The Otherside'
- 5 Film, Radio and Television student Dan Harth at USQ Springfield studios
- 6 Film, Radio and Television student Jack Kelly, working with Channel Nine as part of student industry experience

University of Southern Queensland

Phone : 1800 269 500
Email : study@usq.edu.au
usq.edu.au